

Important Information

1. Payment of grant

- ◆ The April Grant will be bank-transferred at around May 15, 2019.
- ◆ The May Grant and further monthly payment, will be transferred on the third Wednesday every month in principle. (The date is subject to change.)

2. Final income tax return

- ◆ The income from the grant falls under the category of 'miscellaneous income' and income tax is not deducted directly from your income. The students who will receive grant from the program need to do your tax returns procedures on your own at the following year. You can get the total amount of miscellaneous income to report by deducting the necessary expenses for your research, such as the entrance fee and the tuition, from your total income of the grant in the each calendar year from 1 January to 31 December. Please make sure to record your expenditures and keep the necessary evidential documents for the tax purpose.
- ◆ A resident tax is also imposed to the grant income.

3. National Health Insurance

- ◆ If you are a dependent of your parent or your spouse, and covered by his/her health insurance, you may have to be independent from the current insurance and join the National Health Insurance after receiving the program grant. It depends on how much grant you are getting as well as the type of your current insurance. Please check with the employer of your supporter and take the necessary procedure. Especially if you are a doctoral student who receiving 200,000 yen a month, this case might be applicable to you.
To join the National Health Insurance, please go to the municipal office of your residence.
